

Press release

Evidone and SteriLease Launch Pilot Collaboration to Accelerate Deployment of Computer Vision in Sterilization and Operating Room Workflows

Épalinges/Satigny, Switzerland – 27th of March 2026 – Evidone SA, a Swiss healthtech company developing computer vision solutions for hospital sterilization and operating room environments, has entered into a pilot agreement with SteriLease SA, a leading provider of external sterilization and site management services in Suisse romande. The collaboration brings together Evidone’s technology-driven approach and SteriLease’s extensive operational experience in medical device reprocessing.

The objective of the pilot is to accompany the progressive introduction of Evidone’s technology into real-world sterilization operations, with a strong focus on operational robustness, usability, and alignment with existing processes. The partnership is designed to validate that advanced digital solutions can be deployed smoothly in demanding technical environments, without disrupting quality, compliance, or day-to-day workflows.

“Collaborating with an experienced field operator like SteriLease is essential for us,” said Szymon Kostrzewski, CEO of Evidone. “This pilot allows us to confront our technology with real operational constraints and ensure it delivers concrete value in practice.” Nicolas Krischer, CEO of SteriLease, added: “Innovation in sterilization must remain pragmatic and compatible with established processes. This collaboration enables us to explore new digital approaches while staying firmly grounded in operational reality.”

About Evidone

Evidone SA is a Swiss healthtech company developing computer vision-based solutions for hospital sterilization and operating room workflows. Its technology aims to improve traceability, operational efficiency, and data quality across surgical processes, supporting hospitals in optimizing throughput and resource utilization.

About SteriLease

SteriLease SA is a Switzerland-based provider of external sterilization and site management services for medical devices, serving healthcare institutions across Suisse romande. The company offers certified reprocessing services, logistics, and operational support, enabling healthcare providers to meet stringent quality and compliance requirements.

Figure 1: Szymon Kostrzewski (left), Evidone CEO and Nicolas Krischer (right), SteriLease CEO